THERE'S A "NIGGER" IN THE SUGAR

The American people have not fully made up their minds as to whether they are being robbed by the sugar trust, but most of them have a suspicion that such is the case. The way local dealers are parceling out the sweet stuff indicates that the supply is being juggled somehow. Alfred W. McCann, the pure food expert, asserts that sugar profiteers have gouged $940,000,000 from the American people in the past few months. He brings the sugar Equalization Board, created as a part of the Food Administration under Mr. Hoover, to his support. This Board, still in existence, had the opportunity to buy the Cuban sugar crop at six and a half cents a pound. President Wilson would not authorize the purchase. Then, explains Mr. McCann, the Louisiana crop came onto the market at seven cents a pound wholesale, whereupon our Cuban underlings promptly boosted their prices, and perfected their little "corners," with the result that a pound of sugar cost the consumer more than a pound of meat.

Mr. McCann's theory is noticeably incomplete with reference to the sugar refiners' trust, as well as it relates to the domestic sugar beet crop. He supports the attempt to fasten the blame for present high prices of sugar and the shortage of it, upon the Cubans and the Louisiana planters.

It is a short memory that cannot recall the sugar investigation in the Senate a year ago last winter, when the Spreckels interests exposed the American Sugar Refiners, and accused the latter with having juggled the allocation of sugar under the Food Administration. According to Mr. Spreckels the trust succeeded in shutting out their competitors including of course Mr. Spreckels—the man who hollered that if the Cuban markets had been left open to free competition that the law of supply and demand would have made sugar plentiful and cheap, whereas under the system of Government purchase there was nothing but confusion in the midst of which the sugar trust manipulated the situation. The Spreckels doctrine was carried out this year when the President kept "hands off" and let the Cuban sugar supply find its natural outlet. Mr. Spreckels has not protested against the condition which finds his refineries, and the American Sugar refiners, and the whole balance of the crowd, pinching out sugar to the dealers, who in their turn are operating according to the old Vanderbilt philosophy that "the people be damned"—at something like 20 cents per pound.

Mr. McCann and George Zabriskie, chairman of the Sugar Equalization Board, are both hot in the collar because the Government did not purchase the Cuban crop, and they lay the present high prices to that fact and to the manipulations of the Louisiana producers. Possibly they are right in the adoption of these long-distance explanations. And then, again, possibly the divided sheets of the sugar trust and the "independent" Messrs. Spreckels as well, will eventually record the same old tale of a successfully manipulated market and a successfully manipulated public. It would not be surprising.

THE FIGHTING QUAKERS

Attorney General Palmer is addressing a great gathering in Washington recently, said that his people had all been Quakers, since the time of William Penn; and that in the world war every male member of his family of military age, had answered the call to arms. "For my own part," he said, "I deem it as the greatest opportunity of my life that I have been in a position to await the Hun."

Palmer, the Quaker, is recognized as the fighting member of the President's cabinet; and the anarchists who planted a bomb in the doorway of his home and blew up the house, have learned that their tactics were wrong, since the attempt made to assassinate him and his family only strengthened the determination of Mr. Palmer to make the United States undesirable for bad citizens.

The Palmer Americanization doctrine is healthy stuff, and it exactly suits the native born of the U. S. A. The foreign "reds" who find it distasteful can do no better than to escape passage on one of the "ark" ships, that is providing four passages back to those parts of "democratic Europe," where socialists and bolsheviks are not the least except merit, and it is unappreciated.

PAIMER AND THE PROFITEERS

The Attorney-General's administrative task in dealing with the "reds" has more of a spectacular glow than his plan for handling the profiteers. But this last problem is worthy of the full consideration, and nearly everybody will sympathize with Mr. Palmer's advice to the State's attorney of Illinois, whom he advised to attack the profiteers, and to "go after those devils and hang them as high as Haman."

The Attorney-General has laid down a platform for reducing the cost of living. It is simple, and has five planks:

First: there should be a fair price committee in every town and county, backed up officially.

Second: an organization of women who will enforce the figures of the fair price committee against unwilling retailers.

Third: conservation and economy meetings everywhere.

Fourth: the influence of prohibition authority to prevent industrial disturbances and bring about peace in the community.

Fifth: "symbolization of four minute men" to preach the work and save doctrine throughout the country.

There seems little doubt but what proper community organization would be effective along the above lines. In local retailers who have boycotted on them. This was done most effectively one winter in Brooklyn, before the war; and Chicago women took similar corrective steps at about the same time.

The writer recalls how the women of Brooklyn refused to buy either meat or butter, and in a week they had the prices down to where they belonged.

With respect to the first proposition of Mr. Palmer it is a matter of very recent history that the fair-price committee regulated the retailers throughout the country during a period of the war.

Theoretically Mr. Palmer's plan is doubtless "almost all right." And "the people in the different communities would accept the responsibility of protecting themselves they would be able to work out cost prices and stop the profiteering that exists everywhere. But the history of the "community spirit" is that when it seeks to regulate the method of living that it usually graduates into "communism," and in the end humps into disaster.

Nevertheless the Palmer plan has its merits. It is except merit, and it is unappreciated.

WELLINGTON R. CHANDLER

Mr. Wellington R. Chandler, formerly of West Bethel, died January 20th at the age of 56 years and 7 months. He had been falling in health for about three years, but worked up to five days before his death. He was the son of the late Moses R. Chandler.

He worked as a motorman nearly all of the time, and was one of the most faithful and careful of his work. He was well liked both by his many friends and the company he worked for. He is survived by his wife and five children and two sisters, Mrs. Sadie C. Seely of Portland, and Mrs. Gertrude Varney also of Portland.

The funeral was held from his late residence, 233 Princeton street, Sunday afternoon.

NEAR EAST RELIEF

The people of Bethel will soon be asked to contribute to the fund for Near East Relief. This is a worthy cause and we bespeak for those who have not yet contributed a quota.

Bethel has been assigned a quota of $100.00. It will be able to raise the required amount.

The cause is worthy, good, and just. Let each give just a little from our comfort to help keep these people from starvation.

Contributions accepted by Mr. Tibbets at the bank should any prefer to give that way.

THE PRICE OF STREET CAR RIDES

The owners of street railway properties throughout the country have been having more difficulty than has been experienced in most lines of business in readjusting their affairs, for while sugar may leave the five cent zone and get in the price class with face powder, a two cent raise in a street car fare arouses communities and individuals to a spirit of resentment which causes them to wear out their shoes in preference to digging down in their jeans for extra pennies. However, in one instance recently it was found that after two weeks the number of passengers had drifted back to normal after an increase in fares. The five cent fare has become quite habitual throughout the country, and habit reinforced by psychology that has been uncanceled in the minds of the average citizen does not object so much to paying out an extra cent or two, but he does rebel at being held up at the entrance to the car to fumble with the coppers that he adds to his original nickel.

The street car companies are giving thought to the methods of separating the passenger with his small change with the least discomfort to the latter, and a given number of tickets, or a token, for an spot price appears to be a happy side of the trouble.

Every sore throat is a danger signal, says the United States Public Health Service, and may indicate some acute, infectious disease, such as diphtheria or scarlet fever. Take no chance. Have a physician make an immediate examination. A few hours delay may cause death.

SCOUT ANNIVERSARY WEEK

February 8 is the tenth anniversary of the founding of the Boy Scouts of America. In addition to the celebrations carried out by local troops throughout the country, National Headquarters has suggested that during "Good Turn Week" as it is to be called, the principle of the daily good turn should be carried out by every man, woman and child in the country, in recognition of the services performed by the Scouts. Community good turns will be urged in the press, by public speakers, and by civic organizations. Let everyone make a point of doing something for his neighbor, not once but many times during next week.

In Bethel a program has been arranged in conformity with the general scheme. On Sunday evening there will be a union service at the Universalist church at 7:30 P. M., which the Scouts will attend in uniform, under the leadership of Scoutmaster G. H. Swasey. Addresses will be made by Rev. J. H. Little and Rev. W. C. Curtis. In the course of the services the Scout oath will be renewed by the troop at the same moment when 300,000 boys throughout the country are pledging themselves to do their duty to God and their country.

Wednesday will be Mothers' Day. Every Scout is expected to get the family breakfast that morning, putting into use what he has learned of cooking during his Scout training. He will do all that he can at home to make the day pleasant for his mother and others in the family.

Thursday evening at 8 o'clock the troop will give a public entertainment at Odeon Hall, to raise funds to clear up its indebtedness and to obtain some much needed equipment. The program will be announced next week. It will include demonstrations of scouting, with several new features. After the entertainment there will be an informal dance.

Saturday is to be Fathers' Day. If the weather permits, the troop will at some convenient point, to which all have a big campfire and picnic supper the fathers of the Scouts will be cordially welcomed.

A CEMETERY—AND A SER-MON

It was a neat little country cemetery, much like most little country cemeteries, yet there was something queer about it. There was the arched gateway and the customary weeping willows by it. The clipped hedge was like most cemetery hedges. The tombstones were about the average run of tombstones. But, withal, there was something queer—even shocking. Then you discovered what it was. There were truthful tombstones. Consoling platitudes—"Too pure for earth," and that like—found no place. Instead, there were such epitaphs as these: "Mother—walked to death in her kitchen;" "Sacred to the memory of Jane—she scrubbed herself into eternity;" "Grandmother—washed herself away;" "Babe—swept out of life with too heavy a broom."

The people who saw that cemetery—and there were thousands of them—may have been shocked for the instant, but they came away with the thought that one might be better for seeing such a cemetery. For, you see, it was a miniature cemetery, 3 feet square, and it was part of an exhibit at the Montana State Fair. Such levity with the most solemn thing that mankind knows, could not be justified merely on the theory that the things said were true—but those who saw it came away with the belief that it was justified by way of keeping just those things from being true. And that was the purpose of the exhibit, placed there by the agricultural extension department of the State Agricultural College of Montana. It was meant to emphasize the need for home conveniences, for lack of which many a farm woman has gone to her grave before her time.

There were other exhibits designed to drive home the same hard truth. One was a model showing a bleak farmhouse on a bare hill. At the bottom of the hill ran a little stream, and by the stream were barns and cattle. Struggling up the hill toward the house with two heavy pails of water was a bent old woman. And the legend was: "Convenient for the cattle—but not for mother." Then there was a farmhouse with the water supply as it should be, the woman in the yard sprinkling her flower beds with a hose. And the inscription read: "Convenient for mother—and the cattle, too." Another model showed a kitchen as it should be, and another a kitchen as it should not be. And there was the legend: "A long distance kitchen shortens life."

The lesson taught by the exhibit is one that the State agricultural colleges and the United States Department of Agriculture are trying to teach by every means at their command—greater convenience and a larger measure of comfort in the farm home.

The industry in 1917 gave employment to 262,629 persons, of whom 171,119, or over 65 per cent, were women. The sum paid out in salaries and wages amounted to $176,070,440. These employees operated plants and equipment valued at $1,492,329,015, which yielded operating and non-operating revenues of $291,499,531.

The report discusses the development of the telephone industry, telephone equipment and traffic; offers interesting comparisons between the Bell and other systems, and between the telephone system as a whole and the telegraph system, and gives important financial statistics of the industry. Detailed figures are presented for 1917 by states and geographic divisions and comparative statistics for earlier years.

Comparisons with previous censuses bring out in a striking way the remarkable development of the industry. During the decade 1907-17, wire mileage increased 129 per cent, the number of telephones 163 per cent, and the number of messages 90 per cent for systems having income of $5,000 or more. The financial statistics of the report show that while the revenue of the telephone companies has more than doubled during the decade 1907-17, the expenses have increased at an even more rapid rate. Much of the increase in expenses was due to increase in salaries and wages paid. These had advanced from 47.4 per cent of the total expenses in 1912 to 61.2 per cent in 1917. For systems reporting annual income of more than $5,000 in 1917, the average net income per telephone was $6.10 and average surplus per telephone $1.26. (United States)

TELEPHONES

According to the report about to be issued by the Bureau of the Census, showing the results of the census of telephone covering the year 1917, there are 53,234 separate telephone systems and lines. These lines and systems operated 28,827,188 miles of wire in the United States—enough to girdle the earth at the equator 1,153 times—and connected 11,716,520 telephones and 21,175 public exchanges. The messages or "talks" sent over these wires aggregated 21,845,722,335. Figured on the estimated population of the country in 1917, this gives 211 messages per annum to every man, woman and child.

The industry in 1917 gave employment to 262,629 persons, of whom 171,119, or over 65 per cent, were women. The sum paid out in salaries and wages amounted to $176,070,440. These employees operated plants and equipment valued at $1,492,329,015, which yielded operating and non-operating revenues of $291,499,531.

The report discusses the development of the telephone industry, telephone equipment and traffic; offers interesting comparisons between the Bell and other systems, and between the telephone system as a whole and the telegraph system, and gives important financial statistics of the industry. Detailed figures are presented for 1917 by states and geographic divisions and comparative statistics for earlier years.

HOW TO BE HAPPY AND SUCCESSFUL

J. W. Neyman, Ph. D.

To live your life so that you will be happy and successful should be your constant aim. A great deal of advice has been given along this line, and yet many have failed. So I am going to tell you precisely what to do that your life may be happy and successful.

1. You must have right thoughts. Conduct and, to a large extent, feelings have their origin in thoughts. "As a man thinketh in his heart, so is he." Character is formed by our thoughts. Character is our real self. Try to control your thoughts and not hopelessly yield yourself to any imagination. Form thought habits deliberately. Determinately resist the entrance of unclean visions in your thoughts. Banish unpleasant, sorrowful or depressing thoughts and cultivate the joyous. If it becomes your duty to enter into sad affairs, do it in such a way that it will lift the burden from others and bring pleasure to them. As you try to help others to be happy your own happiness will be increased. Keep in mind that you have a useful mission to perform in this world and that you will fulfill it to the best of your ability.

2. Do not do anything that will destroy your ability to do the best work that will destroy your influence for good upon others. Do not eat or drink anything that will destroy your high efficiency or that will form any bad habits that will weaken you physically or mentally. Be a complete man.

3. If you cannot find the work you want, do the work you can get. Better do any useful work than be idle. If you wait for the ideal employment under ideal conditions you will most likely be disappointed. Do the best work you can get to the best of your ability.

4. Cultivate the habit of decision. If matters come that seem difficult to decide, study carefully to know the right and after you have thought it out carefully decide according to what seems best. When you have decided do not fail to act on your decision.

5. Never speak unkindly of any one, whether present or absent. Say the kindest thing you can of every one.

6. Be true to your convictions. When you know a thing to be right, do it without a quibble or hesitation. Never compromise with evil. There is nothing nobler than for a man to do the right because it is right and not because it is easiest or most popular or the thing he wants to do.

7. Try to deport yourself in such a way that will be pleasing to others. Do not be a boor or a groucher. Talk about yourself as little as possible. It is hard for any person to talk about himself to the satisfaction of others. Don't scold or be always finding fault. Cultivate a pleasant tone of voice. Be punctual in all your engagements. Don't break into a conversation. Give attention when others are speaking to you. Don't neglect your personal appearance. Don't dress so you will be conspicuous either because of shabbiness or of gaudiness. Be gentle. Be courteous.

8. Aim to spend less than your income so you will have something left for special need and for old age. Never contract a debt that you are not certain that you can pay. Do not buy a thing you do not need because it is cheap. Remember that money is an evil trust and as God's steward you must one day give an account of the use you make of it. Do not allow yourself to be a charge upon others because of indolence or extravagance.

9. Try to make the best out of the circumstances in which you are placed. The circumstances may not be what you would wish, but do not be discouraged and complain of your fate. Adapt yourself to your situation and make the best out of it. God knows what is best and if you trust Him and do your best you will find in the end that God's way is always wisest.

10. Make God first in all things. He is to be loved best. His honor is to be sought first. You owe your first allegiance to Him. If you make God first in your life, He will not forget to bless you.—Word and Works.

To soften brown sugar when it has become lumpy, stand it over a vessel filled with boiling water.

A good sized pearl button sewed into the corner of the dishcloth will found a convenience when cleaning saucers.

Fine linens and all pieces of hand some lingerie should be wrung out by hand and never through a wringer.

To prevent custard dishes or cups from cracking when pouring boiled custard into them place the dish or cup on a damp cloth.

When washing pudding clothes throw some orange peelings into the water; this collects the grease and helps to make the cloth white and clean.

A little sugar added to lemon juice is better than vinegar for making up vegetable and fish salads, especially for children.

Put a little cream of tartar up in stained spot after washing place in boiler with other clothes. This will remove iron rust and many other stains.

When making apple pie the flavor is much improved and the apples will keep in good color if a few drops of lemon juice are squeezed over the apple just before the crust is put on.

A delicious sandwich filling is made from one part chopped almonds and two parts of shredded or grated celery, with a dash of salt. Moisten the mixture with mayonnaise.

When eggs are scarce and they are needed for puddings, a dessert spoonful of cornstarch may be substituted for one egg.

Dampness will tarnish brass articles. They should be kept in a dry, cool atmosphere.

Leaking cake may be prevented from cracking when cut by adding one tablespoonful of sweet cream to each unbaked egg. Stir all up together, then add sugar until stiff as can be stirred.

A WORD WITH WOMEN

Valuable Advice for Bethel Readers
Many a woman endures with noble patience the daily misery of backache, pains about the hips, blue, nervous spells, dizziness and urinary disorders, know what is the matter.

It is not true that every pain in the back or hips is trouble "peculiar to the sex." Often when the kidneys get congested and inflamed, such aches and pains follow.

Then help the weakened kidneys. Don't expect them to get well alone. Don't's Kidney Pills have won the praise of thousands of women. They are endorsed at home—Read this Bethel woman's convincing statement:

Mrs. Walter E. Bartlett, Chapman St., says: "I feel I can honestly recommend Doan's Kidney Pills and I gladly do so. I used this medicine some time ago and the results I received were in every way satisfactory. Since then I have had no return of kidney trouble."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Bartlett had. Foster-McMillan Co., Mrs. Buffalo, N. Y.

The ladies of Rumford have formed a Republican Club, and have elected the following committee: Mrs. Theodore Spear, chairman; Mrs. Dana C. York, secretary; Mesdames John A. Greene, R. T. Parker, Charles E. Howe, Louis Fortier, D. B. Andrews, W. A. Clough, Arthur Mansur, F. O. Eaton, E. O. Kidder, Zenas Morse, Laura Elliott, Lee Elliott, and Claudia Blanchard.

Rumford fireman had a heart-breaking job in the 25 degrees below zero temperature of Sunday morning last, when the alarm blew in from box 37, at about 4 A. M. The fire, which was in the Oxford Paper Company's wood room, proved a stubborn one to get out, as the mill was full of dust and wood chips. The intense cold clogged the hose to some extent, with anchor ice, water freezing everywhere, as soon as it struck, and machinery was considerably damaged as the timbering and machinery supports burned away. The building itself, being of brick construction with gravel roof, can easily be put in shape again. Repair work was immediately started, and it is expected that the shut down will be of short duration. The paper mill has stock enough ahead so that there will be no shutting down of production.

The funeral services of Mrs. E. L. Lovejoy, who passed away at her late residence on Franklin street on Friday morning last, were held at the house on Sunday at 2 P. M., and were strictly private. The interment was in Rumford, the body being placed in a tomb for the present. Mrs. Lovejoy, who was before her marriage Miss Lena Planders of Wintrop, was the only daughter of Joshua F. and Harriette Thompson Planders of that town. Mr. and Mrs. Lovejoy came to Rumford in 1896, and have lived here ever since, during which time they have made many friends. Mrs. Lovejoy was 51 years of age. A father, husband, and two daughters, Mrs. Carleton Dennis and Mrs. Arthur Jordan, and one son, Waldo, survive her.

The many friends of Mr. John F. Shepherd, a former resident of Rumford, but later moving to Portland, where he has been a trusted official of the American Realty Company, are sorry to learn that he died very suddenly on Saturday morning last, at his home on Park avenue in Portland, after a very brief illness. The funeral services were held on Monday morning of this week.

The water pipes of the house being frozen they were trying to thaw them out with a torch, from which procedure the fire caught. The house was entirely gutted, turning six families out into the street homeless.

WHEAT BREEDING FOR YIELD AND QUALITY
Improvement Work at Aroostook Farm

Aroostook County has a climate that gives a good yield of wheat per acre. It has enough roller mills to make all the flour the people of Aroostook can eat. But with the single exception of the year 1918 when under war conditions there was large acreage the County does not grow enough wheat for its farm homes. While Aroostook County wheat is plump and fine appearing it does not make a flour that makes a large light loaf. Much of the Aroostook grown wheat is blended when milled with imported wheat to improve its bread making qualities. When seed wheat is brought in from the best wheat growing sections of the country because of the moist cool climate it tends to lose its fineness and good quality gluten, and yields flour of inferior quality. As Aroostook wheat chiefly lack in bread making quality the Maine Agricultural Experiment Station undertook a definite wheat breeding work at Aroostook Farm with the purpose to develop wheat strains that would successfully resist the climatic conditions and make good quality flour.

Quality in wheat is complex. It comprises two distinct values, viz. the milling quality and the bread making value or the baking strength. The milling quality is measured by the flour yield and the amount of flour produced from a given weight of wheat. The bread making quality is the capacity of a wheat to produce a large well piled loaf of bread of good color, texture, and eating quality. It is along these lines that the Station seeks to improve Aroostook wheat.

The methods used in the Station's wheat improvement work are based (a) on selection of pure strains or lines out of commercial varieties and (b) on breeding new strains by crossing. Not time enough has elapsed to have produced new strains from crosses. The improvement of the potato crop in 1919 several hundred individual plants were selected from commercial varieties representing the chief groups of potato: Pile, Bluebonnet, President and Marquis. About 300 plants were retained from the original selections and each planted separately in a row in the cereal crop nursery at Aroostook Farm.

The last word in the quality of wheat is decided by the milling and baking tests. But a chemical examination is indicative of quality. Until a pound or more of a new wheat has been produced

WEST PARIS

Corporal William A. Swan died Monday at midnight at the Sisters Hospital, Lewiston, where he went Monday morning for treatment for diabetes which caused his death. He was the son of Osgood J. Swan and the late Mary A. (Farr) Swan, and was born in Greenwood, Aug. 1, 1889. His parents came to West Paris about 12 years ago. He is survived by his father and two brothers, Harry and Walter. Since his illness he has made his home with his aunt, Mrs. Etta Chesley of Pioneer street. The remains were brought to West Paris, Tuesday evening. Corporal Swan enlisted May 7, 1917 in Company D, Second Maine Regiment, which afterwards became the 103rd Infantry. He was stationed at Saco for some time but trained with the Company at Augusta and Westfield, Mass., and sailed with it from Hoboken in September, 1917. Was in the St. Agnant March attack May 10, 1918, the Alsace-Marne battle, July 12-25, 1918; St. Mihiel salient, Sept. 12, 1918; Meuse-Verdun sector, Oct. 20, Nov. 11, 1918. Entered service as a private and was promoted to corporal. Sailed from Brest, March 28, 1919, landed in Boston, Apr. 5. Discharged Apr. 23, 1919 at Camp Devens.

A good delegation from West Paris Grange attended Pomona at Bryant's Pond, Tuesday.

Have your water pipes frozen in the common question when people meet. It is estimated that 25 or 30 families in this section are minus water.

Rev. H. A. Markley, Edward Stilwell, Reynold Chase, Earl Bane, Henry Briggs and Maurice Ellingwood attended the Boys' Conference at Lewiston. This is the corrected list from those given last week.

The young people's meeting was held at the Methodist church Sunday, and the boys each gave interesting papers on the conference. Mrs. Ruby Briggs was director for a chorus of young people that sang several selections from conference hymns.

Mrs. O. K. Yates is very ill and has a trained nurse.

Dr. F. E. Wheeler made a professional trip to Portland, Wednesday, and another trip to Lewiston, Friday.

By invitation of Rev. H. H. Hathaway, a service was conducted at Greenwood by Rev. A. Rait and Rev. H. A. Markley. Quite a good number of the Finnish people were present, and a very good meeting is reported.

Miss Minnie Stevens has been spending a week with her sister, Mrs. F. R. Andrews, at Woodstock.

C. L. Biddle made a business trip to Bangor last week.

The milling and baking tests cannot be employed. The hundreds of the original selections were reduced in 1918 to about 40 as they fell short by chemical test. Thirty-three of the most promising of these and the progeny of pure strains introduced from Minnesota were subjected to milling tests through the courtesy of the Russell-Miller Milling Company, Minneapolis and to baking tests in the laboratory of the Ward Baking Company of New York.

Although this work has only just begun certain interesting and important results have been obtained. From the study of these pure strains of wheat in the field, from the chemical analyses, and from the milling and baking tests, the important fact is brought out that under the same conditions of environment some strains of wheat will retain a higher degree of hardness, produce a larger yield of flour, a higher amount and better quality of gluten, and a larger size of bread loaves than others.

A number of these selected strains possess a high protein content, yield a gluten of good quality, and produce good sized bread loaves of excellent eating qualities. Some of the strains introduced from Minnesota retained their high protein, good quality of gluten and baking strength while others showed a marked deterioration.

The Station's breeding work with wheat at Aroostook Farm has demonstrated that the quality of Aroostook wheat can be materially improved by the method of pure line selection. They show, further, that once strong strains are selected they will tend to retain their relative strength regardless of seasonal variations in environment. The results clearly indicate that strains of wheat are being developed whereby Aroostook County can raise its own flour of good quality. And that it will not be long that the question of quality in wheat will stand in the way of a larger extension of wheat growing in Aroostook County.

These studies also throw light upon the selection of seed at the present time and before these superior strains are developed in sufficient quantity for distribution. In general, local varieties of known performance in regard to milling and baking quality are to be preferred to imported strains. Baking seed from mixed ear lots of unknown varieties cannot be too strongly condemned. The grower should insist upon a seed being true to its varietal name and free from admixture.

The data thus far obtained furnish some guide as to the choice of wheat varieties for seed in Aroostook County.

Under Aroostook conditions the Marquis wheat does not seem to make a good showing as the strains gave low yields and carried only fair quality gluten. The Preston strains are good yielders but only a few excel in quality. The Bluestem strains while of good quality are somewhat late and do not possess quite as strong a straw as is desirable under Aroostook conditions. The Red Fife variety appears to be the best choice. Its strains yielded the strongest flour and are satisfactory yielders.

ICE YIELDS 826 TONS TO ACRE

"Speaking of acre yields," said a specialist of the United States Department of Agriculture the other day, "how many crops are there that can beat 826 tons to the acre? With ice 8 inches thick, that would be the acre yield of a well-harvested pond or creek." And the specialist, who is concerned with encouraging farmers, especially dairymen, to harvest enough of this plentiful winter crop to keep the milk cool next summer, estimated the acre value of the ice harvested. "The commercial value would average about $3 a ton," he said. "That would make an acre of ice worth $2,478. Of course the farmer could not expect to sell the ice for that, and would need only a small part of an acre; but that is what it might cost him if he had to buy it during the scorching days of next summer. During warm weather the use of ice in cooling milk and cream for shipment is often the means of saving many of these products from spoiling." Milk should be cooled to a temperature of 50° or even lower before shipping, to insure the product arriving at its destination sweet. Ordinarily this temperature cannot be obtained without the use of ice.

There is nothing difficult about harvesting ice. Few tools are required, and the work comes at a time when farm work is least pressing. Where there is a pond or stream available, every farmer should take advantage of the opportunity to harvest this crop.

POEMS WORTH READING

We must not expect to be mowers
And to gather the ripe golden ears,
Unless we have first been sowers
And watered the flowers with tears.
It is not just as we take it,
This wonderful world of ours,
Life's field will yield as we make it
A harvest of thorns or of flowers.

GRANDMOTHER'S OLD BRICK OVEN

Newsletters of today, will you give your attention,
While I sing the brick oven, erst
our grandmother's joy, Appointed long since by that worthy invention—
The modern, fine ranges you proudly employ?
And praise not too proudly your own,
nor too loudly
Ponder the old oven and our fore father's way,
For though done by the letter, your baking's no better
Than that which was done in our grandmother's day.

'Tis yesterday morning the oven must be heated,
When upon for fuel the big iron door,
The fagots are brought and for kind-ling completed,
When on the deep arch wake the flame and the roar
And when they are dying, more fuel applying Till thoroughly heated the brick and the clay
Then the oven is preparing ere long to be having
The golden baked product of grandmother's day.

Now, thoroughly heated, the oven can glow
With heat and of ash, the thrifty wife cleans,
And, early beforehand, and fashioned full neatly,
She adds the raw pudding, and ban-nocks and breads
All ready for baking, the door closes, making
The fragrant heat in its prison
to stay,
No more fuel needing and scarce any tending Till thus went the baking in grandmother's day.

The door opens again that the oven may deliver,
In rich commination, its treasure
of fate,
Near peace to the oven and thanks to the giver,
With us for the product impatient to wait,
Then forth the work cooled and absent comes around
From the week's forced labor their glad home-ward way,
And when they are sitting, their palates are testing
The baking I was to send our grandmother's day.

Thus to us, dearest to remembrance returning
The theme of our song to the distance of years
The old fashioned dwelling that we are remembering,
Not the dear ones who used it shall ever be more,
The place and the people year own,
The olden days
When through dim in the night, your
baking's no better
Than that which was done in our
grandmother's day
John Chick Murray.

DIND OF WOUNDS

The captain looks no of him how he lives
A witness lives in that long word of pain,
Lest the come with smiles day after day,
Tune only once the heard the last exclamation,
One only that he tried to smile in vain
If the surgeons could have saved my life, I might Have fought again We have so few men here!
Not when the arm was taken, for, the night,
His tale was all of home, the farm,
the dear
old apple trees whose blossoms cast their shade
Upon him from the thousand miles away

THE TURN OF LIFE

By George Wilson Jennings

From forty to sixty, a man who has properly regulated himself; may be considered in the prime of life. His matured strength of constitution renders him almost impervious to the attacks of disease, and experience has given him judgment almost the soundness of infallibility. His mind is resolute, firm and equal; all his functions are in the highest order; he assumes the mastery over business; builds up a competence on the foundation he has laid in his early manhood, and passes through a period of life attended by many gratifications. Having gone a year or two past sixty, he arrives at a critical period in the road of existence; the river of death flows before him, and he remains at a standstill. But at this turn of life, which is safely crossed, leads to the "Valley of Old Age," around which the river winds, and then flows beyond without a boat or causeway to effect its passage. The bridge is, however, constructed on fragile materials, and it depends upon how it is traveled, whether it will hold or break.
Guilt, anxiety, and other bad characters also are in the vicinity, to way lay the traveler, and thrust him from the path. But let him gird up his loins and provide himself with a fitting staff and he may trudge on in safety with perfect composure. To quit metaphor for fact, "Turn of Life," is a turn either into prolonged life, or into the grave. The system and powers having reached their utmost expansion, now begin to close like flowers at sunset or break down at once. One injudicious stimulant, a single fatal excitement may force it beyond its strength; while a plant, will sustain it in vigor and beauty until the evening or night of man's existence has entirely set in.
Brooklyn, New York.

And there were tears upon the warboned face
As terse, crisp accents told of deeds well done—
A message sped through sheets of fire in race
With death, a wounded comrade dragged from one Grim shell hole to another, fallen son
Of France, who thus her debt of love confessed.

The general, stooping, kissed each pallid cheek
And pinned the croix de guerre upon the breast.
The blue eyes lightened, and the one hand, weak
And groping, sought the cross. He strove to speak;

The nurse bent close; slowly the white lips made
The words: "Tell me, he knew that when I went
I was afraid that I should be afraid."
No sleep, the last gold sands of boy-hood spent,
Our soldier, unshamed and well content.

MOTHER'S BOYS

Yes, I know there are stains on my carpet,
The traces of small muddy boots,
And I see your fair tapestry glowing,
All spotless with flowers and fruits.
And I know that my walls are disadorned
With prints of small fingers and kisses;
And that your own household most true-ly
In immaculate purity stands
And I know that my parlor is littered
With many old treasures and toys,
While your own is in daintiest order,
Unharmful by the presence of boys.

And I know that my room is invaded Quite boldly all hours of the day,
While you sit in your unmolested
And dream the soft quiet away.

Yes, I know there are four little bed-sides
Where I must stand watchful each
night,
While you may go out in your carriage,
And flash in your dresses so bright.

Now, I think I'm a great little woman;
And I like my house orderly, too,
And I'm fond of all dainty belongings, Yet I would not change places with you

Not keep your fair home with its order,
Its freedom from bother and noise;
And keep your own fanciful leisure
But give me my four splendid boys

LITANY

By George Wilson Jennings
Land, God, Almighty,
What art thou doing,
What art thou doing,
What art thou doing,
With them abide

To follow after Thee,
In all we plead,
To follow after Thee,
Wherever Thou might'st lead.

In darkest night,
In brightest day,
Land, God, Almighty,
Hear us pray.

Send us love divine,
From Thy font above,
Pour it into our hearts,
So we may learn to love.

Give us courage,
To fight and win,
Courage, to conquer
Every deadly sin
We pray for strength,
To do no ill;
We pray for strength,
To do thy will Hid us with thy might,
O'er land and sea;
As we battle for the right,
Vouchsafe us victory
In darkest night,
In brightest day,
Land, God, Almighty,
Hear us pray.

Woman Suffered in Silence

Health Poor, Beauty Fast Fading Away—
Made Believe She Was Well.

A business woman writes: "There must be lots of women who feel as I did. I suffered in silence many times
I took four little doses of your Dr.
True's Elixir, and it fixed me up grand.
I will never be without it again in case of constipation."—E. B. B. Alleton, Mass.
The bowels need attention first and always. Rich foods, improper cooking, irregular and quick eating, lack of exercise can all be offset providing a mild laxative is taken regularly.
A Business Man Writes: "The continual rush of office details and the short meal hours I get, together with, I think, restaurant foods, has simply knocked my system all to pieces. I felt lousy, and had no appetite until I took Dr. True's Elixir, as a Laxative.
It is a great thing. No one should neglect their bowels."—Boston Business man.
Dr. True's Elixir, the Family Laxative and Worm Expeller, with an established reputation since 1851 (over 65 years) has accomplished the seemingly impossible. It has relieved thousands upon thousands of sufferers from constipation, which causes so many terrible disorders.
Dr. True's Elixir will benefit every one: The laborer who eats heartily and quickly; the office boy and girl who eat "fast-foods"; and irregularly; elderly people who can't digest well and children who suffer from intestinal parasites.

to health and pocketbook. At all drug

"OVERTHROW WORLD ORDER!" CRY COMMUNISTS

Manifesto of Communist International, Seized in U. S. Department of Justice Raids, Tells "Reds" Own Story of Their Plans for World Wide Plunder.

Extracts from "Manifesto of the Communist International—Adopted by the Congress of the Communist International at Moscow, March 2-4, 1919, and signed by Comrades C. Rakovsky, N. Lenin, M. Zinovjev, L. Trotsky and Fritz Platten."

Alongside the dethroned dynasties of the Romanoffs, Hohenzollerns and Hapsburgs, and the capitalist cliques of these lands, the rulers of France, England, Italy and the United States stand revealed in the light of unfolding events and diplomatic disclosures in their immeasurable villainess.

Spurning the half-heartedness, hypocrisy and corruption of the decadent official socialist parties, the Communists assembled in the Third International, feel themselves to be the direct successors of the heroic efforts and martyrdom of a long series of revolutionary generations from Babeuf to Karl Marx, Engels and Rosa Luxemburg. As the First International foresaw the future development and pointed the way; as the Second International gathered together and organized millions of the proletariat, so the Third International is the international of open mass-action of the revolutionary proletariat, the bourgeoisie world order. The task of the International Communist Party is to overthrow this order and to erect in its place the structure of the socialist world order. We urge the working men and women of all countries to unite under the Communist banner, the emblem under which the first great proletarians of all lands! In the war against imperialist barbarity, against monarchy, against the privileged classes, against the bourgeois state and bourgeois property, against all forms and varieties of social and national oppression—UNITED!

Under the standard of the Workingmen's Councils, under the banner of the Third International, in the revolutionary struggle for power and the dictatorship of the Proletariat, proletarians of all countries—UNITED!

The revolutionary war compels the proletariat to make use of the means of battle which will concentrate its entire energies, namely, mass action, with combat. All other methods, such as revolutionary use of bourgeois parliamentarism, will be of only secondary significance.

The indispensable condition for successful struggle is separation not only from the direct servitors of Capitalism and enemies of the communist revolution, in which role the Social Democrats of the Right appear, but also from the Party of the Center (Kautskians), who desert the proletariat at the critical moment in order to come to terms with its open antagonists.

The growth of the revolutionary movement in all lands, the danger of suppression of this revolution through the coalition of capitalist states, the attempts of the Socialists to unite with one another (the formation of the Yellow "International" at Bern), and to give their services to the Wilsonian League; finally, the absolute necessity for co-ordination of proletarian actions—all these demand the formation of a real revolutionary and real socialist Communist International. This International, which subordinates the so-called national interests to the interests of the international revolution, will personally the mutual help of the proletariat of the different countries, for without economic and other mutual helplessness the proletariat will not be able to organize the new society.

Inc calculable are the sacrifices of the working class. Their best—Lieske, Rosa Luxemburg—they have lost. Against this the proletariat must defend itself, defend at any price. The Communist International calls the entire world proletariat to this final struggle.

WOMEN EXCEED MEN IN JAPANESE FACTORIES

850,000 Japanese Women Work at Average Daily Wage of Ten to Twenty Cents for a Twelve Hour Day.

There are more women in industry in Japan than there are men, according to a statement recently made by the War Work Council of the Young Women's Christian Association.

The world war has brought 850,000 women and girls into the daily grind of industry according to this statement; 30,000 of them little girls under fifteen years of age who work twelve hours a day at a wage of ten to twenty cents a day, that the world may have silk dresses and munitions.

In Tokyo alone, a city of two and one-half million people, there are 100,000 women employed in sixty-two industries and businesses varying from work as telephone operators, clerks, stenographers and bookkeepers to work in silk and other sorts of factories, and domestic work.

Each year thousands of these women go back to their homes in the country, broken in health and victims of tuberculosis because of the poor conditions under which they work and live. They are housed in dormitories in the factory compound. These dormitories are frequently unsanitary. The girls work long hours, have no recreation and on finishing their long day go immediately to bed, oftentimes a bed which a girl who works at night has been sleeping in all day.

As part of its world service for women, the Young Women's Christian Association plans to build dormitories in manufacturing towns where girls may live cheaply under healthy physical and social conditions, to send out secretaries who can introduce recreation into the factory compound and direct games and social life.

This is done with the co-operation of the factories managers and proprietors. One of the most influential of these is Mrs. Suzuki, the most prominent woman manufacturer in Japan, who is owner and manager of a firm which exported $11,000,000 worth of bean oil to America last year.

Recently Mrs. Suzuki decided to employ one thousand women in her offices. She could not find enough well trained ones so she established a permanent school where Japanese girls may be trained to enter the business world. The greatest danger ahead of Japan, she says, is in the growing materialism, and Japan's greatest need, the development of her women.

WARNS NATION OF RED PERIL

U. S. Department of Justice Urges Americans to Guard Against Bolshevism Menace.

CALLS RED PLANS CRIMINAL

Press, Church, Schools, Labor Unions and Civic Bodies Called Upon to Teach True Purpose of Bolshevist Propaganda.

Washington,—Chilling for the patriotic support of all true Americans in its fight to protect their homes, religion and property from the spreading menace of Bolshevism, the United States Department of Justice has issued a warning against the insidious propaganda of the "Reds" during the new year. It reads:

"It would be extremely helpful to the cause of good government, the maintenance of law and order and the preservation of peace and happiness in our country if the people on this New Year's day would resolve to study, understand and appreciate the so-called 'Red' movement. They can counteract it most effectively by teaching its purpose through the press, the church, the schools, patriotic organizations and labor unions, all of which are within the range of its insidious attacks.

"Red" Theories Criminal.

"The 'Red' movement does not mean an attitude of protest against alleged defects in our present political and economic organization of society. It does not represent the radicalism of progress, namely, the introduction of dictatorship by the world over by force and violence. It is not a movement of liberty-loving persons, but a distinctly criminal and dishonest movement. Lenin himself made the statement at the Third Soviet Conference, 'Among one hundred so-called Bolsheviks there is one real Bolshevik, thirty-nine criminals and sixty fools.' It advocates the destruction of all ownership in property, the destruction of all religion and belief in God. It is a movement organized against Democracy and in favor of the power of the few built by force. Bolshevism, syndicalism, the Soviet Government, sabotage, etc., are only names for old theories of violence and criminality.

Russian Labor Crushed.

"Though their adherents in this country are advocating and fomenting strikes, Lenin and Trotsky forbid broken and completely subordinated to the will of the few demagogues in control in Russia. This Bolshevist experiment on the living body of the Russian people has not proven in any sense of the word an experiment in Democracy. The Bolshevist leaders frankly repudiate democratic principles as we understand them. It has been a gamble which meant for Russia, and, indeed, for the whole of humanity, enormous losses in lives as well as in material resources. The Bolshevists have run up a colossal bill which the Russian workmen and peasants will have to pay.

"Having lived at the expense of the Russian people for two years, these speculators in human lives and other people's earnings are trying to move to new fields to the east and to the west, hoping to take advantage of the economic disintegration and confusion of mind in which humanity finds itself after the terrible strain of five years of war.

"The sympathizers in this country are composed chiefly of criminals, mistaken idealists, social bigots and many unfortunate men and women suffering with varying forms of hypochondria. They are enemies of the government, of the church and of the home and advocate principles which mean the abolition of all three of these safeguards of civilization.

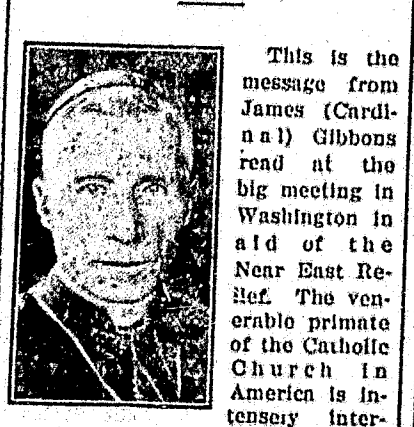

Would Rob Everybody.

"Twenty million people in this country own Liberty Bonds. These 'Reds' propose to take away $630,000,000 people in the United States own farms and $338,000,000 more own homes, which they would forfeit; 11,000,000 odd people have savings accounts in savings banks and 13,000,000 people have deposits in our national banks, at which they claim there are hundreds of thousands of churches and religious institutions, all of which they would abolish. In other words, 110,000,000 hard-working and law-abiding people who own property, love liberty and worship God are asked to abandon all the ideals of religion, liberty and government, which are the outcome of the struggles of our fathers and their own development, and to place themselves, their wives, their families and their religious faith in the keeping and their property in the domination of a small group of Lenin and Trotsky.

Protection Promised.

"This department, as far as existing laws allow, intends during the forthcoming year to keep up an unrelenting, persistent, aggressive warfare against any movement, no matter how cloaked or dissembled, having for its purpose either the promulgation of these ideas or the excitation of sympathy for those who spread them. The movement will not be permitted to go far enough in this country to disturb our peace and well-being or create any widespread distrust of the people's government. It will fall away before the light of popular knowledge and appreciation of its aims and purposes."

Cardinal Gibbons Asks Aid For Starving Armenians

This is the message from James (Cardinal) Gibbons read at the big meeting in Washington in aid of the Near East Relief. The venerable primate of the Catholic Church in America is intensely interested in the cause of good government, the maintenance of law and order and the preservation of peace and happiness in our country if the people on this New Year's day would resolve to study, understand and appreciate the so-called 'Red' movement. They can counteract it most effectively by teaching its purpose through the press, the church, the schools, patriotic organizations and labor unions, all of which are within the range of its insidious attacks.

"I hope we shall all unite in this present emergency and be able to collect sufficient funds to enable these peoples to live and work until next summer brings them permanent relief and subsistence. I call upon all to respond generously to the appeal now being made and trust that the committee will be gratified with the results."

WAR NURSE FROM ARMENIA ASKS AMERICA'S AID

Soldier Husband and Battlefield Baby Touring Country With Her for Near East Relief.

A mother, father and daughter, the latter born in a tattered Red Cross tent in the icy Caucasus while guns roared all around and Turkish shells, ignoring the money emblem, burst near it, are touring America in behalf of their native Armenia. They are General Mezerp Newton Azgabetian, his wife, Lady Anne, and French Esther Araxia Azgabetian, whose baby eyes opened upon scenes of horror and later through them saw much of the sufferings of the people of Armenia.

The family are making their tour under auspices of the Near East Relief, the big organization which has saved hundreds of thousands of the people in that part of the world from death by hunger and cold and is soon to open a nation wide campaign for funds to complete the work of saving the survivors, more than a half million of whom must perish unless aid comes to them soon. America is their only hope.

General Azgabetian served gallantly in the Russian armies in the Caucasus against the Turks. His wife, who accompanied him to the front, did noble work for the wounded and sick, and it was while in this service that her baby was born in a hospital tent during a battle. An army blanket swung from two poles in one corner of the tent was the baby's crib during the rest of that terrible winter campaign. With the collapse of the Russian armies after the Bolshevik revolution the Azgabetians returned to Armenia for a brief spell and did their best to alleviate the suffering they found on every hand. But with a Turkish price on his head the father finally made his way with his family through Russia to Finland and then to this country. What they tell of conditions and needs in Armenia is first hand evidence.

In the Caucasus, Armenia, Syria, Turkey and Persia are more than 250,000 orphans, helpless little victims of war, massacre and desecration, and for the great majority the only bar between them and absolute starvation is a bowl of hot bean soup every day. This soup is supplied by the Near East Relief now making an appeal to the American people for sufficient funds to increase this dole and to provide these suffering little ones with clothing and give them an education that will help them to become self supporting. It is estimated that more than 1,500,000 in Western Asia will die of starvation unless American aid is continued.

$5 PER MONTH FEEDS ORPHAN

Cleveland H. Dodge Shows What Near East Relief Can Do in Efficient Purchasing.

Buying in wholesale lots and under the most favorable market conditions, Near East Relief of 1 Madison Avenue, New York City, with representatives in every state of the Union, has been able to baffle the high cost of living so far as relief supplies for the suffering millions of the Near East are concerned.

Cleveland H. Dodge, treasurer, in a statement shows that the committee is able to provide food for the suffering people of the Near East at prices much lower than the average charge here.

A donation of $5 per month will provide food for one orphan, $10 per month provides not only food, but also clothes and shelter for one orphan, and for $15 per month attendance at school is assured to each orphan in addition to food, clothing and shelter.

In the appeal for funds to save the starving remnants of the Armenians and other western Asia peoples, Near East Relief is inviting the American public to "adopt" an orphan at the rates given here. Over 250,000 homeless children are in need of help in the Near East. Women's organizations, lodges, churches and social clubs are responding to the appeal by adopting quotas of orphans for support over a definite period.

"Before and After" in the Near East

From misery to comfort and self-respect in five days' time, simply through the magic of an American ten dollar bill, is a transformation that is being wrought daily in Western Asia by the Near East Relief of 1 Madison Avenue, New York City. The group of five Armenian children shown in two pictures, here have reason to bless the American donor of that ten dollar bill. With this money, the expert workmen of Near East Relief in Armenia were able to give the poor children of their loathsome rags and to clothe them with new garments of alaba cloth, woven in a Near East Relief industrial plant and sewed into garments by the mother of the children. The mother was also paid a small fee for her services in making the garments.

This was a lucky family. There are thousands of others not so lucky. Near East Relief is asking the American people to contribute funds to save the starving in the Bible lands. It is estimated that over 1,250,000 adults are in desperate need, and 250,000 children are orphans and must be cared for. For the sum of $150 a year Near East Relief can not only feed and clothe and shelter an orphan child, but can also give a course in education towards ultimate self-support and independence. Many of these orphans are being "adopted" by Americans, who are providing funds for the support of one or more over a given period.

WHAT REDS WOULD HAVE US SING

—From I. W. W. Songs—Seized in Red Raids of U. S. Department of Justice.

One day as I sat playing
A message of cheer came to me,
A light of revolt was shining
On a country far over the sea.
On a country far over the sea.
The forces of rulers to sever
And the flag of the earth to unfold
To secure our freedom forever
And a world of beauty untold.

CHORUS.
All hail to the Bolshevik!
We will fight for our class and be free,
A Kaiser, King or Czar, no matter Which you are You're nothing of interest to me!
If you don't like the red flag of Russia,
Then just be like the cur in the story
And lick the hand that's robbing you.

We have lived in meek submission
Three ages of toil and despair,
To comply with the plumes' ambition
With never a thought nor a care.
An echo from Russia is sounding
'Tis the chimera of a True Liberty,
It's a message for millions reminding
To throw off your chains and be free.

SHOW HOW PEOPLE CAN GET LIQUOR

Detailed Regulations Issued by Revenue Bureau

Methods by which intoxicating liquors may be obtained for medicinal purposes and detailed regulations governing their sale were made public recently by the Bureau of Internal Revenue. Announcement also was made that the Bureau had compiled a system of permits, providing a definite and fixed channel through which all intoxicating liquors must move and by which hereafter the government will know the location of every gallon of distilled liquor within the nation's boundaries, except that stored in private homes.

Warning Issued

In setting forth the ways in which liquor may be procured, Commissioner Roper took occasion to issue a warning against profiteering in its sale. The commissioner declared that exorbitant charges for liquor for medicinal purposes "certainly places the dispensers thereof in the class with profiteers and they will be investigated."

Mr. Roper also announced that all liquor seized under federal law prior to last Oct. 3, unless claimed under the 60 days ruling would be sold by order of the court under the jurisdiction of which it is held. It must be sold, however, to a holder of a permit to use it either for medicinal or non-beverage purposes.

Both the physician who prescribes and the pharmacist who sells liquor, under the regulations provided, must have a permit which may be obtained from the federal prohibition director. Other details of the method by which liquor for medicinal purposes may be purchased follow:

Doctors Can Secure Permits

"Any physician duly licensed to practice medicine and actively engaged in the practice of such profession may obtain a permit to prescribe intoxicating liquor and may then issue prescriptions therefor for distilled spirits, wines or certain alcoholic medicinal preparations for medicinal purposes for persons upon whom he is in attendance and cases where he believes that the use of liquor, as a medicine is necessary. In no case may a physician issue a prescription for more than one person within a period of 10 days.

"All prescriptions for intoxicating liquors are required to be written on prescription blanks provided by the bureau, except that in emergency cases physicians may use their regular prescription blanks.

"Prescriptions for intoxicating liquor may be filled only by registered pharmacists who hold permits authorizing them to do so, or who are employed by retail druggists holding such permits. Pharmacists and druggists holding such permits will procure their supplies of intoxicating liquor from manufacturers or other persons holding permits authorizing them to sell liquor.

"May Buy From Pharmacists
Persons to whom prescriptions for intoxicating liquor are issued by physicians may procure the liquor prescribed through pharmacists or druggists holding permits without obtaining a permit.

"Physicians may also obtain permits authorizing them to procure not more than a quart of distilled spirits, wines or certain alcoholic preparations during any calendar year for administration to their patients in emergency cases where delay in procuring liquor on a prescription through a pharmacist might have serious consequences to the patient.

"Provision is also made in the regulations for issuing permits to hospitals and institutions to enable them to procure intoxicating liquor to be administered for medicinal purposes to patients at such institutions and also for issuing permits to manufacturing, industrial and other establishments maintaining first aid stations, authorizing them to procure such liquor for administration to their employees for medicinal purposes in emergency cases."

HEAVY PENALTIES FOR HUNTERS

Five hundred dollars, the maximum fine, recently was levied by a judge in Michigan against a hunter for selling 22 ducks in violation of the Migratory Bird Treaty Act. Another violator of the same law, in Connecticut, who has been guilty of repeated offenses was sentenced recently to three months in jail. This offender was not given the alternative of paying a fine. The Migratory Bird Treaty Act has been in force since July, 1918, and several hundred convictions have been secured. These cases are cited by the Biological Survey, United States Department of Agriculture, which administers the law, to show the increasing concern with the important statute designed to protect migratory birds, insectivorous birds and songbirds.

Bats and owls present in the United States consist of one species a day, says the United States Biological Survey. Write to the Surgeon General, Department of Health, for an instructive leaflet on how to get rid of them.

PAPER FAMINE IS IMMINENT IF WOODLANDS ARE WASTED

Survey of Pulp-Wood Resources Shows Need for Conservation. Utilization of Mill Waste and Regeneration of Forests Urged by Specialists of U. S. Forest Service

In less than 20 years 95 per cent of the pulp and paper mills of the country, mainly those in the East, will have practically exhausted their supplies of spruce, hemlock, and fir—the principal woods from which the paper on which newspapers are printed is made.

The annual cutting of these woods in the New England States and New York is approximately 3,262,000 cords, and at this rate the supply will last approximately 17 years. The estimated annual cutting in the Lake States is 3,030,000 cords, and if continued will exhaust the supply in that region within 18 years. Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia, and North Carolina, with their smaller forest resources, are even worse off, the annual cutting being calculated at 1,470,000 cords, at which rate the spruce, hemlock, and fir will last but 10 years. Only in Alaska, Washington, Oregon, and California are the reserves in no immediate danger of exhaustion, if the cutting continues at over, to a holder of a permit to use it either for medicinal or non-beverage purposes.

These figures, of special interest because of the present paper shortage, are included in estimates compiled by the Forest Service of the United States Department of Agriculture. The data accumulated give additional emphasis to the demand for a nation-wide policy that will put privately owned forests on a permanently productive basis and will also result in utilizing mill waste for paper making.

Mill's Location a Factor
Even if the country's hemlock, spruce, and fir resources, including the vast forests of far-off Alaska, are lumped together, the supply of these woods will be sufficient to meet the lumber and paper demands for less than three-fourths of a century, assuming that the present rate of cutting continues. At first glance it might seem that a national supply for three-fourths of a century makes it unnecessary to worry over the lumber question for some time. But, as already stated, 95 per cent of the pulp and paper mills are located in the East; these are very expensive establishments, often costing millions of dollars, and can not be moved conveniently to new locations, nor can wood be shipped to them economically from great distances. Consequently talk of easily utilizing the far-off reserves is impracticable unless the present mills are to be scrapped and new ones built nearer the source of supply.

Up to 10 years ago the United States was self-sufficient with regard to news print, but within the last decade the consumption has exceeded home production and premises to do so increasingly. In view of this situation two alternatives present themselves, according to Forest Service experts and representatives of large wood-using industries. The country must depend increasingly upon Canada, eventually abandoning much of its own mills, or the Nation's policy with regard to its private forests must be radically changed.

Canada now has 90 paper and pulp mills which produce approximately 2,160 tons of paper a day, of which 89 per cent is available for export. Of all supplies of paper, wood, and pulp used by the United States about one-third now comes from Canada.

Available Supply in National Forests
While the supplies of pulp wood in Alaska and the Northwest are very great, only about 5 per cent of the mills are located in those regions. So long as publishers can obtain Canadian paper more cheaply than they can get it from the West, it is to be expected that they will buy from Canada. Nevertheless, there are several factors which should gradually bring western paper into competition with the eastern Canadian product, according to forest experts. There are quantities of wood in the West available at stumpage prices much less than in the Northeast. Much of this wood is on the National Forests, and, therefore, is available without the carrying charges that must be figured against large investments in land. Furthermore, the yield per acre of forests is much greater in the West than in the eastern Canadian forests, and there are large water powers available in the West. Certain disadvantages, such as high wages and high freight charges, must be recognized in considering the supplies in the West, but it is believed that these do not counteract the advantages.

Must Adopt Permanent Policy
The Forest Service points out, however, that whether paper interests rely increasingly upon Canada, or upon increased use of our western resources, in either case there are temporary expedients. In the long run the country must adopt the paper problem on the basis of a permanent wood supply. To this end it is urged that the mill waste be utilized for paper making and that the forests of this country be regenerated and administered on a more progressive basis.

RETURN OF SOLDIER DEAD POLICY IS ANNOUNCED

Wishes of Kin Will be Sole Determining Factor

The policy of the War Department in regard to the return from France of the bodies of deceased American soldiers, was announced by Secretary of War Baker to a delegation of forty-six men and women—all relatives of dead service men—from Pittsburgh, Greensburg, Lehigh, and Scottsdale, Pa., Chicago, St. Louis, Baltimore, New York, Birmingham, Ala., Richmond, Va., and Washington, D. C. The Secretary's statement was as follows:

"At the outset the War Department promised that it would return, as soon as practicable, the bodies of all soldiers who died in France and whose next of kin desired the return."

"The War Department has never departed from this promise, nor abated any effort to carry it out. So far all obstacles have been overcome in the matter of the return of all bodies from England, Italy, North Russia, Belgium, Luxembourg, Siberia, Germany and outside the war zone in France, and every step which can be taken has been taken to return these bodies at once.

The French government temporarily withheld its consent to the exhumation of bodies in the war zone where the largest number of allied dead are buried. The State Department is seeking actively to have this consent given, and as soon as it is given the same steps will be taken with regard to the American dead buried there. No sort of preference will be permitted in the order of the return of our dead, but that system will be followed without exception which will return those who are to be brought back most speedily, without distinction between officers or men, or upon any other ground.

"The wishes of the next of kin will be the sole determining factor. Those who desire to leave the bodies of their dead on the ground where they fell, or in the great memorial cemeteries in France, will be permitted to do so. As between those who represent different views of the action proper to be taken in the matter of bringing home these deceased soldiers, the War Department has only the desire to have free discussion of the circumstances in order that all decisions may be made on the basis of full information and the wishes of those most interested respected."

ings, is well adapted for paper making by one of the three chemical processes now commonly employed. But only about 5 per cent of the wood used for pulp is mill waste, and this is evidently a very small portion of all the slabs and edgings from spruce, fir, and hemlock now being made into lumber. Here, undoubtedly, is a big field for development, as it is estimated that there must be an annual waste of 1,600,000 cords of these species alone.

Even more important than the utilization of mill waste is the regeneration of the forests for the perpetuation of the paper industry in the United States. The policy of wastefully cutting the forests and making little provision for future growth must be abandoned speedily, say forest experts. In the future, operations should be so conducted as to secure increasing reproduction of trees valuable for lumber and pulp. Fortunately such species as fir and poplar are prolific seeders and may be reproduced naturally. Spruce may be reproduced under proper methods of forest management, though with more difficulty. As the cost of pulp wood increases, investments in plantations, especially in the neighborhood of pulp mills, will commend themselves. The growing of large quantities of wood close to the mills will greatly reduce the cost of lumbering and transportation. Young, thrifty, growing forests will produce yields scarcely imagined by one who has been accustomed to deal exclusively with old timber. It is urgently recommended that in this connection the practice of Sweden be given serious consideration. In that country the mills employ technically trained foresters who prepare accurate figures concerning the yearly growth of the forests which serve as a rigid basis for the annual cut of timber.

It is the wood-using industries rather than the lumber companies that are especially interested in applying conservation to the national lumber supply, according to the Forest Service. Likewise, it is the publishers rather than the pulp companies which must eventually pay the penalty for wasteful lumbering and which must, therefore, take it upon themselves to guarantee the perpetuation of the Nation's pulp supplies.
